When I play it back I have to turn the local PC speakers up to get volume up loud enough so everyone can hear. I turn one speaker off so it is not stereo sound then try to get my phone close to the speaker.

I haven't seen any options on Zoom

18:11:35 From Joaquin Juatai Thomasville, NC:

You can find a chart on how to cut shellac at <https://www.oldworldshellac.com/> . You can also get good shellac there.

@Dane Chandler - DFA - Tucson AZ I use Streamlabs when I demo - it works for playing back videos, too. It's a subscription service, but it's definitely worth every penny if you broadcast frequently.

yes. Streamlabs cuts through all Zoom's BS and plays the source directly. It's another layer, but they have a deal with Zoom and it bypasses all the Zoom nonsense. I can show you my setup offline some time.
