I just finished a 12 day sale, at one location, vendors were vetted, supposed to only be hand made work,brought in thousands of people.
Just so happened that the 2 vendors across from me were selling temu jewelry and scarves.
I've been doing this show for 5 years and I've never done worse! Just made me so frustrated with the organizers I almost didn't do the last weekend, but I at least covered the cost of the space, and made a bit of profit

16:32:24 From Doug Miller in Kentucky:
Replying to "I have a friend loca..."

Hollow forms with the pith work out beautifully. If the wood is a little green it will warp and make all kinds of character.

16:32:50 From Chuck:
how does the crackle work?

16:39:01 From Matt Harber - DAW - Highland, MI - Goblets!:
If you want to use Crackle, different brands may work differently than what Paul has described. Read the directions carefully!..... There are things like Crackle Medium, that you can use with acrylic paints, even airbrushing can be done....

@Chuck FolkArt Crackle Medium | Hobby Lobby | 1940535

16:42:34 From Chuck:
Replying to "If you want to use C..."
I guess I'm not understanding the concept....if I do a search what should I look for?

Is my thinking correct, Paul sprayed the green, yellow, blue...it was solid then sprayed the crackle on top?
Then the crackle just disappears and leave the lines?

16:42:38 From Paul Hannaby creative-woodturning.com:
Replying to "If you want to use C..."

@Chuck These paints are spray cans and yes, just spray it on but it does take a little practice to get the effect right. Differing thicknesses of paint can affect the results

16:43:18 From Matt Harber - DAW - Highland, MI - Goblets!:
Replying to "If you want to use C..."

Usually, the bit that needs to crackle needs to be applied while the paint underneath is still a little wet.....
because the crackle layer has to move as it dries.

16:43:35 From Paul Hannaby creative-woodturning.com:
Replying to "If you want to use C..."
